THE GAZEITE.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 20, 1860.

THE EMPEROR'S REVIEW .- The Paris correspondent of the London Daily News says: The review to-day on the Longchamps race course, was the prettiest thing of the kind that I have ever seen in Paris. The crowd of spectators was immense. Reviews on a larger scale have been seen often, both at Satory and on the Champs de Mars; but it is a finer sight to see 15,000 men manœuvering freely than 30,000 or 40,000 who simply get into line to be galloped past. The troops took up their positions at daybreak, pitched their tents, lit their fires (very necessary in the raw cold of the morning), and in due time cooked and ate their breakfast .- The illusion of an actual campaign was kept up in many particulars. Fatigue parties went to the forest, (which in many parts still remains in its primitive state in the cultivated and ornamented Bois de Boulogne) to cut wood, and others brought water from the Seine. At half-past eleven the Emperor arrived upon the ground, followed by a numerous staff, among whom were Marshals Magnan, Bandon, Vaillant, Neil, Pellissier (Duke of Malakoff), Canrobert, and Regnault de Saint Jean d'Angely. The Imperial Prince, in the uniform of corporal of grenadiers, followed his father upon a Lilliputian pony. The Emperor entertained, not all the officers as was anticipated vesterday, but all the above and inclusive of the rank of captain, at a grand military breakfast in the racing stands. While the "feeding" was going on, a bridge was thrown across the Seine, the exact relation of which to the sham fight of the day, I was not able to ascertain. At about halfpast one the infantry encamped on the St. Cloud side of the race course were supposed to be surprised by an attacking force, and in an incredibly short space of time they struck their tents, donned their knapsacks, and formed line. The cavalry and artillery came on the ground simultaneously from their encampment further eastward. I witnessed their arrival from the rocks above the cascade, and a finer sight I never saw in my life. The artillery came at a racing pace. One of the most remarkable features of this remarkable review in the eyes of military men was the experiment, on a large scale, of the new half squares to resist cavalry, which are supposed to be just as effective as the old square, which necessarily presented only a portion of their front to the enemy, leaving the Camp, by H. A. Durivage, 16 cts. a large force useless.

THE IRON MOUNTAIN .- One of the Philadelphia Board of trade Excursionists, who, in company with a large delegation, is prospecting through the West with a view of drawing business to the Quaker City, gives the following description of the Iron Mountain, Mo .:

"One of the greatest curiosities of the State-indeed, almost ranking with Niagara and the Mammoth Cave for unique interest-is the Iron Mountain, which some of our party visited. It is eighty-six miles from St. Louis, reached by a railroad constructed by the owners of land, or rather metal, but destined to be extended to Memphis. The chief formations are the Iron Mountain proper and the Pilot Knob. The former is a vast | the Young,) by the author of "The Missing Link," mass of specular oxide, its height above the | $1; My Saviour, or Devotional Meditations on the valley being two hundred and twenty-eight feet, and at is base covering an area of five hundred acres, which give 230,187, 375 tons of ore. But besides the parts above the surface, on digging down one hundred and fifty feet, the ore is found still to continue, and how much deeper is not known.

On the supposition that the size is the same, every foot of descent gives 3,000,000 tons of ore. The shape of this mountain is the upper half of an oblate spheroid. Its ore contains 98 per cent. of pure metal. There are three furnaces at the foot of the mountain, but only one now in operation. Pilot knob, about 3 miles from the Iron mountain, is 581 feet high, ascending conically to nearly a perfect apex -Its height is 581 feet, and it covers an area of 360 acres. The amount above the surface is calculated at 13,972,773 tons. There is no ore on the surface at the base, but about half way up the inclined plane it is blasted and quarried like granite. It is silicious specular oxide, and contains 54 per cent. of pure metal. The party was and value of this great metalic deposit, which would be even more an incalculable mine of wealth than is the case now, if coal were near at hand. Unfortunately, either the ore must be conveyed to the coal or vice versa.

LIFE IN THE GOLD REGIONS .- Among the deep defiles of the Rocky mountains, lately, a small company of men stood around the new made grave of a dead companion. With heads uncovered they listened attentively to the words of the preacher as he offered up a prayer. While in the midst of it, one of company discovered "the color" in the earth at his feet, thrown up to make room for the remains of the deceased. In a loud whisper he communicated the rather exciting intelligence to his companion. All heard it, even the clergymen, who, suspending his prayer, opened his eyes to see the auditory scatter in every direction to stake off gold claims. Calling in a loud voice to stake him off a "claim," he reclosed his eyes, hastily concluded his prayer, and started off on a run to & Co, and for sale by join his fellows in securing a claim.

A SINGULAR VEGETABLE SKELETON .-- A singular story is told of an apple tree planted over the grave of Roger Williams. This tree had pushed downward one of its main roots in a sloping direction, and nearly straight course, toward the precise spot that had been occupied by the skull of Roger Williams. There making a turn conforming with the circumference, the root followed the direction of the back-bone to the hips, and thence divided into two branches, each one following a leg bone to the heel, where they both turned upward to the extremities of the toes of the skeleton. One of the roots formed a slight crook at the part occupied by the knee joint, thus producing an increased resemblance to the outlines of the skeleton of Roger Williams, as if, indeed, moulded there- Sth, 1859, upon the trial of John E. Cook for treato by the powers of vegetable life.

THE BEST PLAN FOR NEW CITIES .- The London Builder says that a spider's web furnishes a better plan for the laying out of new cities, than any which has yet been devised by surveyors and engineers. Any one who can find a distinct and complete web unbroken will see how beautifully regular it is, and how perfectly adapted for the quickest passage from any one point to another .-The concentric rings are not circles, but polygons, the radiating, exquisitely regular and 140 engravings, price 25c. TO THE PUBLIC. PASHION in dress is the pictorial history of the times, while it is the outward reflection, or rather hale, of internal refinement, and, therefore, in order to gratify appreciative intellectuality, the undersigned has, with greatcare, purcha-sed a superior assortment of CLOTHS, CASSI-MERES, and VESTINGS, embracing the newest styles and most elegant patterns the European market affords, which will be made up to order in artistic mode, defying superiority in cut and workmanship. In the FURNISHING LINE. Cashmere and India have poured out their offer. ings of Wool and Silk, the industry and intelligence of our own great country has competed in many instances successfully, in producing Shirts, (under and upper,) Drawers, Gloves, Suspenders, Hall Hose, Handkerchiefs, Neck Ties, STOCKS, with many other articles usual in a gentleman's toilet. Also, a good assortment of REA-DY MADE COATS, PANTS, and VESTS, cut and made like ordered work, very far superior to what is generally sold in that way. But a small profit is asked, and orders filled with punctuality.
